

REBUILDING LIBRARIES IN TIME OF OVERLAPPING CRISES

Lina Šojat, Institute of Art History, Zagreb

Irena Šimić, Institute of Art History, Zagreb

Magdalena Blažić, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Zagreb, student

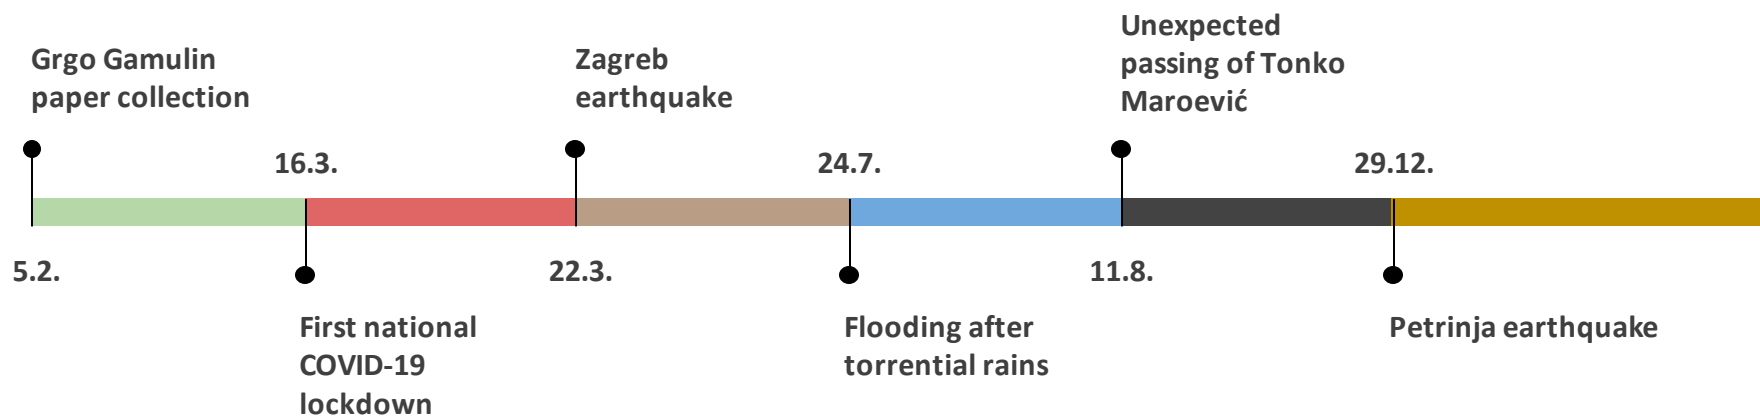

Filip Kartelo, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Zagreb, student

The Institute of Art History in Zagreb is a public institution founded in 1961 with the goal of improving and systemizing scientific activity in the field of artistic and cultural heritage in Croatia

LINK

Key dates of the crisis 2020

Paper collection of Grgo Gamulin received in a compromised condition

The collection had to be cleaned from the remnants of spores

Archive Grgo
Gamulin

Personal archival collection stored at the Institute of Art History Zagreb

LINK

Main premises of the IAH Library after the earthquake in Zagreb, 22nd March 2020

Part of the IAH Library collection partially damaged in the flood, 24th July 2020

Study room of Academician Tonko Maroević at the Institute of Art History in Zagreb

9/12/2020

14

14/12/2020

15/12/2020

15/12/2020

Process of forming an Ex libris collection on site, September – December 2020

Ex Libris Tonko Maroević, March 2021, after the second massive earthquake on 29th of December 2020

A

C

G

H

L

M

B

D

#building new competencies

#risk management

#collaboration and teamwork

#inclusivity

#transfer of knowledge

#solidarity

#democratic decision-making

#persistence and patience

#building trust and optimism

#low cost DIY methods

*Umjetnost je naša pratilica i u sretnim i u nesretnim časovima života, ona nije naša igračka, ona je vrlo ozbiljna i prava potreba,
i to za svakoga.*

(I. Kršnjavi)

„Art is our companion in both happy and unhappy moments of life..”
(Isidor Kršnjavi)

A special thanks to all of our colleagues at the Institute of Art History.